Copyright Laws Effect Photocopies

JANUARY 1 was the effective date for compliance with new copyright laws. Although many aspects of these laws are still being discussed with respect to interpretation, a very definite restriction has been placed on copying, and will have direct bearing on many traditional practices. The law is very clear for example on the fact that classroom professors should not plan to use the same copied materials semester after semester.

Two restrictions imposed by the law will govern - multiple copies distributed to students and copies of materials placed on library reserve. Faculty members should begin now to assess their instructional methods in terms of the new copyright laws.

The classroom professor will only be allowed to photocopy materials when the tests of Brevity and Spontaneity have been met.

BREVITY

A complete article, essay, or story must be no more than 2,500 words in length, or an excerpt from any work of prose not more than 1,000 words in length, or constitute no more than 10 per cent of a work.

SPONTANEITY

The instructor's decision to use the work to enhance the effectiveness of his teaching must be within a time frame that would not permit him/her to receive a reply from the copyright owner. If materials are to be placed on reserve in the library, it is obvious that those same materials could not be kept there over an extended period or used the next semester, since there would then be reasonable time for permission to be secured.

Compilations of copyright materials are prohibited unless permission is secured in advance, thus students should be instructed not to photocopy a book of readings without permission from the copyright owner. Music for band and choir

ADMINISTERING A CHANGE

Administration officials reported staying at work into the night to improve registration. Many students conceded that the Spring registration was smoother.

members will present an additional problem, and the Director should plan accordingly.

Among the areas affected on the campus will be the library, the duplicating center, coin-operated record players, and all other areas with photocopying machines. Signs of designated size must be posted near unattended machines. Operators of supervised machines should be familiar with the laws.

A complete copy of the new copyright laws is on file in the library. Since the signs place the responsibility on the individual, everyone should become familiar with the revision of the copyright laws.

Profile

When the Board of Regents met on campus in December it approved the naming of two campus buildings and a facility. The TSU Meritorious Awards Committee recommended the move which honored four present or former faculty members. ACCENT begins the year by profiling these four: Dr. Hubert Crouch, Mrs. Martha M. Brown, Miss Lois H. Daniel and Coach Edward S. Temple.

HUBERT BRANCH CROUCH served the university for 28 years before retiring in 1972. In 1944 he left the position of professor of biology at Kentucky State University to become professor of biology and director of the Division of Science at TSU. In 1958 he became the first dean of the Graduate School. He continued in that position until his retirement. Dr. Crouch earned the B.A. degree from Texas College in 1927, the M.S. from Iowa State College in 1930 and the Ph.D. in Zoology from Iowa State College. He was one of the founders of the National Institute of Science and engaged in extensive research published in scientific, professional journals. He served on the boards of many community organizations,

The Graduate Building has been renamed the Hubert Branch Crouch Building.

MARTHA M. BROWN was one of the faculty members when TSU was founded in 1912. She served for 33 years, directing the library from two rooms and a negligible number of volumes to one of the first libraries erected in a black state college. The Martha M. Brown Memorial Library was erected in 1927 and modernized in 1950.

LOIS H. DANIEL earned the B.S. degree "with high distinction" from TSU in 1933, the B.S. in Library Science from Hampton Institute in 1937 and the M.A. in Library Science from the University of Chicago in 1945. She was one of the few professional librarians in the South. Miss Daniels' 33 years of service overlapped the administrations of all four TSU presidents: Dr. W.J. Hale, Dr. W. S. Davis, Dr. A.P. Torrence and Dr. Frederick Humphries. She was instrumental in the planning of the 1950 remodeled library and the new library, which opened in 1977. The new library has been named Brown-Daniel Library.

EDWARD STANLEY TEMPLE received the B.S. degree in Health and Physical Education from TSU in 1950 and the M.S. in Health and Physical Education here in 1953 with a minor in Sociology. He has done advance study at Pennsylvania State University. He is presently TSU's associate professor of sociology, coordinator of track and field for U.S. Olympic team in 1960 and 1964. He coached in the USA Pan-American Games in 1959 and 1975 and was USA coach of European Tours in 1958, 1960 and 1970. He was a member of the U.S. Olympic Committee for the past five Olympics and has led the Tigerbells to international recognition. The new track will be named the Edward S. Temple Track.
