VOL. I Nashville, Tennessee, March 13, 1944 No. 23

I KNOW MY JOB

I was born in this land of the free!
I am an American!
I have been educated in our country's schools!
The U. S. Public Schools!
I have taught youngsters myself, in those schools;
I am a Teacher!

And now we are at war and more than ever I am needed --
For I know my job!
The children -- now -- as always must be taught
The Four Freedoms,
And learn love and understanding, patriotism and leadership
For the world tomorrow!

Yes, I am a Teacher and a friend of children
To whom they come!
And my job today will help build a new world
Of peace (please God!)
My work is not in war production but here in my schoolroom,
And I am proud!

MISS MARGARET WALKER

The History Study Club under the direction of Prof. Merl R. Eppse is presenting Miss Margaret Walker as a lecturer on Negro folk literature and poetry reader Monday, March 13, at 8:15 p. m. in the College Auditorium. Miss Walker is a member of the English Department of West Virginia State College and is author of "For My People."

DIVISION OF AGRICULTURE MONOGRAPH

"Planning the Production of the Vegetable Portion of the Home Food Supply" is the title of a mimeographed bulletin by Mr. Neal McAlpin of the Division of Agriculture. The monograph bears the imprint of the Division of Agriculture, Department of Horticulture, and is listed as Publication No. 100.

READ

Edward K. Weaver: "The Role of the Negro College" in PHYLON, First Quarter, 1944. ("Negroes have too few opportunities to functionally and actively participate in democracy for the school to operate in other than a democratic manner.")

"The Negro in the North During Wartime," (L. D. Reddick, Issue Editor) Journal of Educational Sociology, January, 1944. ("Specifically, this number may be considered as a supplement to what has been written about the Negro in the South, and as a corrective to much that is being said and written from a national point of view.")

PREREGISTRATION

All major advisers are urged to begin work with their advisees Monday, March 13, to prevent congestion over the Registration week-end. Advisees may complete their registration in Bursar's Office on the following schedule: Monday through Thursday (March 13-16) at any regular office hour; Friday, March 17, Juniors and seniors 8 A. M. to 12 noon; Saturday, March 18, Freshmen and sophomores; Monday, March 20, new students and irregular cases.

DEVOTIONAL SERVICES

The Administration has secured the services of the Rev. Russell C. Barbour, pastor of First Baptist Church, and the Rev. W. S. Ellington, pastor of First Baptist Church, East Nashville, to conduct devotions at the chapel period on Mondays and Thursdays, respectively. Whenever persons sponsoring a chapel program desire to choose their own leader for devotions they must notify the Dean's Office in writing 5 days in advance so that the minister concerned may be notified.

FACULTY REGISTRATION ASSIGNMENTS

1. All teachers will be in their office Friday and Saturday, March 17 and 18 from 8 A. M. until noon to assist students who desire to preregister.
2. All teachers will be on duty in the College Auditorium at 8 A. M. Monday, March 20, to assist in registration from 8-12 and 1-4.

THE FACULTY IN THE NEWS

Miss Christine Alexander was a discussion leader at the joint conference of teachers of Agriculture and Home Economics held at Haynes High School, Saturday, March 4.

Mrs. Willette Goodlett and Miss Jessie Abbott accompanied the Basket Ball Team to Kentucky State College last week-end.

FACULTY DATA FOR CATALOG

All members of the faculty are requested to read carefully the information about themselves which appears in the 1943-44 catalog (pages 8-11) and write a note to the Dean if they desire any changes to be made with respect to their names. Faculty ranks will be adjusted in the new catalog in keeping with the April payroll ratings. The new catalog will be dated May, 1944.

PROJECTS AND THESES

Beginning with the Spring Quarter 1944, all Senior Projects will be signed by the faculty adviser and by the head (or acting head) of the Division in which the student is working for a degree.

Master's Theses will be signed by the chairman of the committee and two associated advisers.
