

Emphasis On Grades Creates False Incentive

The NEWS REPORTER editors have received a stimulating communication from the chairman of the "Tulane Student Movement for Investigating the Pass of Fail Grading System." Similar communications apparently have been addressed to other colleges in an effort to ascertain what thinking, if any, is being done on the problem of improving the traditional grading system in order to supply sounder incentives to learning.

In supporting its position and explaining its purpose, the Tulane group says:

"... the grading system of grammar schools, high schools, and colleges has much to do with shaping the individual's sense of values, because it is usually the first set of sociological incentives which an individual encounters. . . . We notice that too many students come to work for grades and regard scholarship, which the grade (supposedly) symbolizes, only as a secondary interest. . . . So artificial a motive as an external reward cannot fully develop the latent capabilities of an individual. . . . We suggest that INTEREST IN ONE'S WORK and personal satisfaction with a job well done (not A's, B's, C's, or D's) are the only incentives which will move the individual to produce a lasting achievement and to lead a wholesome, happy life.

"When the majority of our people do 'look within' and seek primarily personal satisfaction in work well done, not only will the quality of their work greatly improve, but also will the surprisingly large number of Americans stricken with mental diseases—resulting from personal and social conflicts—gradually decline. . . . If we would successfully teach this attitude of personal satisfaction, we must start in our educational institutions, preferably in colleges."

In proposing a simplified marking system to replace the traditional A-B-C-D-E grades that fit so neatly into registrar's records, the "Tulane Student Movement" frankly recognizes the difficulties that may arise in cases of transfer to institutions which are unwilling to adjust their admissions policies to any system of certification different from their own. This, of course, is a genuine difficulty if one's primary consideration is to maintain the "exchange value" of college transcripts, as though

Intercollegiate Athletics At Tenn. State College During The New Era

O. J. Chapman, Former Director of Athletic Publicity and Business Manager of Athletics

When Dr. Walter S. Davis, Tennessee State distinguished alumnus and educator, became president of his Alma Mater in 1943, a new era in intercollegiate athletics was ushered in—an era which has attracted the attention of the sports-loving public throughout the length and breadth of this great nation of ours. However, when one considers the athletic background of President Davis, he is able to understand the remarkable progress that has been made and is still being made in the field of sports at this youngest of all the Negro land-grant colleges.

Dr. Davis was an excellent athlete in high school and college. He lettered in football, baseball and tracks; and for a short period of time, he played professional baseball in Mississippi, Arkansas, and Tennessee. He was head football coach at Tennessee State College in 1933-1936, and his Tiger team was very highly respected, not only in the Mid-Western Conference but throughout the entire South. One of his most feared opponents, Henry Arthur Kean, is now head football coach and director of athletics at this great Nashville institution. Dr. Davis really "hit the jackpot" when he brought Coach Kean to Tennessee State in 1944.

Suppose we now open the athletic scrapbook of the Tennessee State College Tigers and see what they have done in the last three years. Here is their amazing record.

FOOTBALL

I. Thirty-four (34) games won out of thirty-nine (39) games, played against the strongest teams from each of the four Negro intercollegiate conferences.

II. Three consecutive Vulcan Bowl victories in 1945—Tennessee State 13—Tuskegee 0; 1946—Tennessee State 34, Texas 0; 1947—Tennessee State 33, Louisville Municipal 0.

III. Two consecutive Derby Bowl victories in 1945—Tennessee State 45, Godman Field 24; 1946—Tennessee State 26, West Virginia State 7.

IV. Only team in history to ever play two bowl games in one season. The Tigers did it in 1946 and 1947 and won on both occasions (Vulcan and Derby Bowls).

V. Winners of the Mid-Western Conthey were a kind of educational currency. The tendency to perpetuate arbitrary "standards" and established practices and to impose them, whenever possible, upon other institutions has long been a deterrent to educational progress.

But it is a very short-sighted and timid kind of progressivism that loses heart in the face of opposition. Educational change cannot wait upon the nod of reactionary authority. At Stephens College, curricular reorganization has been effected, new courses have been developed, traditional courses have been modernized strictly on the basis of WHAT IS THE BEST EDUCATIONAL EXPERIENCE THE COLLEGE CAN PROVIDE FOR THE STUDENT? In many cases the accreditation of newly developed functional and basic courses has been slow. But gradually approval has been won on the basis of proved value, though full accreditation in certain courses is still denied by some institutions. The important point is that the pressure of inner conviction has been stronger than the pressure of outer convention. With respect to the grading system, however, the College has temporarily yielded to the stress of the conformists and follows the familiar pattern. But the long years of effort to DEEMPHASIZE grades and to EM-PHASIZE the all-round development of the student are not a lost chapter. The objective may be slow in attainment, but it is fundamental to the philosophy upon which the College program is built.—Stephen College News Reporter, Nov., 1947.

ference football championship in 1945 and 1946, and co-champions with Wilberforce in 1944.

VI. National champions in 1946.
VII. Played in the Washington, D. C. Capital Classic in 1946 and 1947, winning over West Virginia State College 27-12 on October 18, 1947, but lost to North Carolina State 14-6 in 1946.

VIII. Played in the first Negro intercollegiate charity game in Memphis, Tennessee on September 19, 1947 and defeated Arkansas State College 26-0.

IX. Eight All-Americans:

A. William Bass, Robert Drummond, Israel Jones and Shannon Little in 1944.

B. William Bass and Robert Drummond in 1945.

C. Robert Drummond, William Washington, Raymond Whitman and Nathaniel Taylor in 1946.

X. Up to the time of this writing (October 28) Tigers have six consecutive victories under their belts and seem headed for another Mid-Western and National Championship in football.

BASKETBALL

I. Won Southwest open tournament at Prairie View State College in 1946 and 1947.

II. Stopped Langston University's consecutive winning streak of 56 games on January 17, 1946, winning 72-59 in the Prairie View, Texas tournament.

III. Won Mid-Western Conference championship in 1947, and were runners-up to Kentucky State College in 1946.

IV. During the past two years, Tigers have won fifty-seven (57) games out of sixty-two (62) games played.

V. Defeated West Virginia State College, one of the strongest teams in the East last year, by the score of 62-45.

BOXING

There has been a formal intercollegiate boxing team for the last two (2) years. The 1945 team (our first) did not fare very well. The 1946 team won the Mid-Western championship. This team was coached by Tom Harris. He was assisted by Lawrence Simmons.

OTHER SPORTS

There are also competitive teams in track, both men and women; swimming, men's team only; and tennis, both men and women.

In addition to competitive sports, there is an elaborate intramural program.

To add color and richness to this program, there is the famous colorful marching band.

In justifying our athletic program as well as the over-all broad extracurricular program, Dr. Davis states: "Since the end products of learning are: skills, knowledge and attitudes, and since the regular curricular program has failed so miserably to develop favorable attitudes in our youth, an elaborate extracurricular program becomes most essential." He further states "That in addition to developing within our youth a desirable attitude toward all things, including our country, state, school and fellowmen, extracurricular activities serve as a mental regulator in such a nerve wrecking era, and no present-day school program is complete without such a program."

TENNESSEE A. & I. STATE COLLEGE MEMORANDUM

To: Instructional Staff

From: Office of the Registrar
SUBJECT: Registration of Probation Students

Students on scholarship probation are prohibited from registering for above 12 credit hours (14 if Science Course included) of work per quarter.

Upon RELEASE from probation, students may register for as much as 18 credit hours per quarter.

In order to report on any probation student it is necessary to have on file a grade for each course the student carried during the quarter.

The Office of the Registrar is unable to make any statement concerning RELEASE of students from Fall Quarter probation for the reason that to date it did not receive from teachers the grade reports necessary for determination of the averages. Consequently, each student who was listed as ON PROBATION for the Fall Quarter, 1947, will CONTINUE ON PROBATION for the Winter Quarter unless within the 14 day period following the date which all grades are due in the Registrar's Office, his record shows a 2.0 cumulative average. The 14 days are CALENDAR days.

If, at this time, the student's record shows the necessary average, he will be RELEASED from probation and may add courses yielding up to a total course program of 18 quarter hours.

FACULTY IN THE NEWS

Congratulations to the Biology Department for the publication of the Bio-Log. Mr. R. H. Jordan is the faculty adviser.

Because of the scientific value of the findings resulting from chemical research studies on Ketenes (during 1946-47), Dr. Carl M. Hill has been awarded a renewal of a grant-in-aid by the Research Corporation of New York. The new grant for 1947-48 is $3000.00. It provides for two graduate fellowships, ($500.00 each) and one undergraduate assistantship, ($250.00) and for the purchase of specialized chemical research equipment.

The Tennessee Valley Authority has entered into contract with the Tennessee State Board of Education for the performance of chemical research studies leading to the development of objective methods for the determination of freshness of foods grown in Tennessee. This research project is under the supervision of Dr. Carl M. Hill and is currently participated in by two students; one graduate and one undergraduate.

At the 14th Annual Convention of the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools held at Prairie View State College, December 3-5, the institution was represented by Dean G. W. Gore, Jr. and Dr. E. L. Sasser. Dr. E. S. Matthew, consultant for the State Department of Education, also attended the meeting. Dr. Sasser served as a member of the Committee on Resolutions and Dean Gore served as a member of the Auditing Committee and was elected to membership on the Commission on Higher Education for a two-year term.
